

New Employee Onboarding Guide: Your First 90 Days

Brightway Retail Group, People Team. Version 3.2

Welcome

Starting a new job is exciting, but it can also feel overwhelming. This guide explains what happens in your first 90 days, who will help you, and what we expect from you. A good start matters: new employees who follow a structured onboarding plan reach full productivity faster and are more likely to stay with the company.

Before your first day

- You will receive a welcome email 5 working days before you start, with your start time, office address and dress code.
- IT creates your laptop, email and chat accounts within 24 hours of your contract being signed.
- Your manager assigns you an onboarding buddy: a colleague from your team who answers everyday questions.

Your first week, step by step

1. Day 1: meet your manager and buddy, collect your laptop and badge, and take an office tour.
2. Day 2: complete the mandatory training on data security, workplace safety and our code of conduct.
3. Day 3: shadow your buddy and sit in on team meetings to learn how work flows.
4. Day 4: set up the tools you will use every day and read your team's key documents.
5. Day 5: have a 30-minute check-in with your manager to agree on your goals for the first month.

The 30-60-90 day plan

- First 30 days, learn: understand our products, customers, tools and the people you work with.
- Days 31 to 60, contribute: take ownership of small tasks and start giving ideas in meetings.
- Days 61 to 90, perform: work independently on your main responsibilities. Your probation review takes place at day 90.

You will have a one-to-one meeting with your manager every week during the first 90 days.

Working with your onboarding buddy

Your buddy is not your manager. They help with practical questions: where to find a document, how to book a meeting room, who to ask about expenses. Plan a 15-minute coffee chat with your buddy at least twice a week during your first month.

Do and avoid

- Do ask questions early. Nobody expects you to know everything in your first month.
- Do write down what you learn, so you can build your own notes and checklists.

- Do introduce yourself to people outside your team.
- Avoid staying silent when you are stuck for more than one hour; ask your buddy.
- Avoid sharing passwords or customer data, even with colleagues.
- Avoid comparing yourself with people who have been here for years.

Who to contact

- Your manager: goals, priorities and feedback.
- Your buddy: everyday questions and team habits.
- People Team: contracts, payroll, leave and benefits.
- IT Helpdesk: laptop, accounts and access problems.

Remember: ask early, learn fast, and connect with people. Your first 90 days are an investment in the rest of your career here.
